Charles Le Brun

Le 3 septembre 1939, l. a. France et l. a. Grande-Bretagne déclarent la guerre à l'Allemagne. Le monde vient de basculer dans ce qui va être le plus grand bouleversement guerrier Histoire de la Seconde Guerre mondiale jamais connu. Le feu va éclater partout: sur les terres de la vieille Europe, qui se relève à peine de l'apocalyptique conflit de 14-18, mais aussi dans les mers du Pacifique et dans les sables de l'Afrique...D'un côté il y a les forces de l'Axe (Allemagne, Italie, Japon...), de l'autre il y a les Alliés (France, États-Unis, Grande-Bretagne...), et sur les multiples fronts, des soldats hâves, épuisés, lancés en des combats douteux, au milieu de populations bombardées, prises en otage. De la « guerre-éclair », qui anéantit l'armée française et bombarde Londres, à la chute de Berlin, cinq ans plus tard: des bombes nippones de Pearl Harbor à celle, atomique Histoire de la Seconde Guerre mondiale et américaine, d'Hiroshima; des neiges de Stalingrad aux Histoire de la Seconde Guerre mondiale pierres brûlantes du désert de Libye, voici le récit complet de ces années de tourmente de d'héroïsme, de folie et de flammes.
